EXAM AZ-900 TOPIC 1 QUESTION 3 DISCUSSION

Actual exam question from Microsoft's AZ-900

Question #: 3

Topic #: 1

[\[All AZ-900 Questions\]](#)

Note: The question is included in a number of questions that depicts the identical set-up. However, every question has a distinctive result. Establish if the solution satisfies the requirements.

Your company's Azure subscription includes a Basic support plan.

They would like to request an assessment of an Azure environment's design from Microsoft. This is, however, not supported by the existing plan.

You want to make sure that the company subscribes to a support plan that allows this functionality, while keeping expenses to a minimum.

Solution: You recommend that the company subscribes to the Professional Direct support plan.

Does the solution meet the goal?

A. Yes

B. No

Review is only under Premier. Stop giving the wrong answers.

Premier is still available but only for companies with enterprise agreement. Professional Direct offers only :Guidance from a pool of ProDirect delivery managers". Guidance is not a design review.

"while keeping expenses to a minimum". That is the point. So a std plan would suffice.

I think you are mistaking. The catch to the question is keeping expenses to a minimum. The service they require is an on-premise inspection. If you opt for the standard plan you won't get such service. So that is money wasted since Microsoft as stated in their docs won't refund your money even if you cancel and already purchased support. And now you have to purchase support for the right plan this Money spent twice.

Based solely on the information provided in the question, it is not possible to determine whether the assessment is specifically for an on-premises environment.

STANDARD $100 per month - This is the correct Answer
Professional Direct: $1,000 per month

Note: Always evaluate the SCOPE of the plans as well.

Premier: The highest tier, offering personalized technical account management, rapid response times, and in-depth architectural advice for large enterprises. This plan includes proactive services like training and assessments.

es, the solution meets the goal.

The Professional Direct (ProDirect) support plan offers:

Access to proactive guidance, architectural reviews, and design assessments, which aligns with the company's requirement to request an assessment of the Azure environment's design.

Priority support with faster response times, which adds value over the Standard plan but at a lower cost than Premier support.

Standard gives Architecture guidance, so that's the cheapest. Let's see what the other proposals are for this series chat gpt : The Professional Direct support plan does provide faster response times and additional services compared to the Basic plan, but for design assessments and architectural guidance, the Standard support plan is typically sufficient and more cost-effective. The Standard support plan offers access to architectural guidance, which includes assessments of your Azure environment's design, and it is less expensive than the Professional Direct plan.

Therefore, subscribing to the Standard support plan would meet the company's needs for design assessment while keeping expenses to a minimum.

Cost wise it won't be the best option. SO it doesn't meet the goal In My Opinion.

They are talking about architectural guidance and the minimum service plan you need for that is "Developer". Thus B

Confusing quetsion

Does 'assessment of an Azure environment's design from Microsoft' equate to 'Architecture support' from the website?
<https://azure.microsoft.com/en-gb/support/plans/>.

Does 'general guidance' suffice under developer or standard plans? or do you need 'guidance from a pool of proDriect delivery managers' under 'professional direct'?
