The answer is "You can't start an existing VM"

I have verified by login in to an account that has an expired subscription and I was able to access the data but not start a VM.

The free account is only for 30 days, after that you have to upgrade your account to a pay-as-you-go pricing, which is not a free account anymore, but for 12 months you can use the resources for free.

Honestly, i think that you can access to your personal data, but you defenitely CAN'T start any VM if your account has expired.

I thought the same, but you can't start an VM machine either if I am not wrong. I am doubtful about these two.

Your subscription and services are disabled when your credit runs out or expires at the end of 30 days. To continue using Azure services, you must upgrade your account.
