Right answer should be Microsoft Trust Center

Office 365 compliance will only show compliance status and other details about office products. Microsoft offers more products in cloud (Azure) beyond office. So the right answer should be that applies to larger set of cloud offerings is Microsoft Trust Center.

In my opinion, It should be "trust center" as correct answer, so reading the question , as it talks about "microsoft cloud products" in general , the right anwser is "365 compliance portal" as far it covers whole MS cloud and services.
