"Azure CLI is a cross-platform command-line program that connects to Azure and executes administrative commands on Azure resources. Cross platform means that it can be run on Windows, Linux, or macOS" <https://docs.microsoft.com/fr-fr/learn/modules/differentiate-azure-management-tools/2-explore-azure-management-tools>

I must have missed something in this question...

You can manage web app settings from the Azure portal itself and with Azure Cloud Shell (integrated in the portal).

Azure CLI depends on Cloud Shell, that depends on the Azure Portal.

Azure portal must be one of the correct answers

From iPhone all what you can use is 1- "Azure app"; 2- Azure portal or 3- Azure Cloud shell. Impossible to use "Azure cli" from an iPhone. There is no Terminal app there. On the Mac, yes but not from an iPhone.

Of course, PowerShell is wrong. It is not supported on iOS, but has MacOS support.

The correct answers are:

-Azure Portal (in fact, I often access it on my Smart Fridge's Monitor).

-Azure Cloud Shell (which is also available from any device that can browse the Internet).

You can access the Azure Portal from <https://portal.azure.com>, and the Azure Cloud Shell from either the portal or <https://shell.azure.com>
